The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

The Meaning of Christmas

This is to thank the many readers who responded to the needs of the 20-year old Lemon Grove deaf-mute girl Bobi (That's the way she spells it.) during the holiday period.

Bobi was burglarized of her 12-inch black-and-white television just before Christmas. She reported the loss to the Sheriff's department in Lemon Grove and her plight was told to employees of the Department of Motor Vehicles in La Mesa.

DMV employees made her the guest at their annual Christmas luncheon, supplied a replacement television, together with other gifts including some cash. The television was extremely important since it was her main contact with the outside world.

While this was going on, she was notified that the house she lived in had been sold and the new owner wanted ocupancy by the first of the year. It would have been traumatic for a person with all faculties but to a deaf-mute it must have been panic time.

As the Old Year ended word came form the sheriff's department that a suitable house, not far from her former residence, had been obtained for her.

Thanks to those generous people in the Lemon Grove area who took the problems of this candicapped girl to heart, added to the meaning of Christmas to many.

Hand That Rocks the Cradle Can Improve the Board of Sups

Say goodbye to Dick.

Say hello to Lucille.

A new supervisorial era opened for residents of the east county this week when Lucille Moore took the oath of office as successor to Dick Brown.

Mrs. Moore is quite happy to be identified as a married woman and she voices no opposition to the designation Mrs. Many middle-class, middle income Americans are of the mild opinion that any married lady is entitled to a little more respect for not making a flap about the marriage symbol than those who claim to be more comfortable with the title Ms. And there are those who suspect that some who hold the Ms title in such high esteem may be comfortable in either his or hers restrooms.

Mrs. Moore does not offer criticism of any lib designate. She says she is the servant of the people who hired her in the November election. She is an attractive and sensitive woman. She responds intelligently to questions about her new job and about those of specific problems.

Her policies offer a decided switch from those of Dick Brown's. Brown focused his attention on organization, operation and subordination of individual to a somewhat cold, efficient government.

Moore, at least until she picked up the 2nd. District reigns of county government Tuesday, gave promise of a warm, concerned relationship with her constituency on an almost personal basis. If what she says is translated into action, east county will enjoy an improved quality of representation—particularly those who live in the Lemon Grove and Spring Valley areas.

"Families in communities such as Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, Santee and Lakeside, even though they live in communities that have many of the characteristics of cities, do not have local government except as represented on the Board of Supervisors," she said.

"...I will utilize my staff to seek input from community groups such as Chambers of Commerce, planning organizations, schools and others to assist in planning the types of communities the residents wish to have.

"I do not promise overnight solutions to community problems...", she said.

She is an advocate of "reasonable" planning for land use.

Her view of proposed incorporation of Lemon Grove was well put:

"People who live in incorporated cities have a local government at hand and have control over such matters as land use, crime prevention and determining priorities for public service.

"In the matter of incorporation for Lemon Grove, I will not attempt to impose my personal position on the electorate. My office will make information available, however, to enable voters to be fully informed when they go to the polls.

"The proposed property tax rate of a maximum of 70 cents for the second and third years after incorporation compares favorably with other cities in the county. During the first year, of course, no property tax would be levied.

"Voters also must look at the fact that the county currently receives $1.6 million in sales tax and other state imposed revenues from Lemon Grove residents and businessmen. Local residents have no control over how these funds are used.

"Regardless whether voters approve incorporation in Lemon Grove or not, it must be recognized that many of the physical characteristics of the city have already been determined.

"In the county as a whole we must continue to seek a balanced growth pattern that includes industrial and commercial development as well as residential. In addition, public services required by development must be available or economically feasible.

"In my opinion, the voters have expressed a desire for reasonable planning for land use, but at the same time want to be a part of the planning process to guard against overcontrol.

"Each community has the right to determine within the legal frame work of the state what type of community the residents want, and concerned citizens want to participate "in those decisions."

Lucille Moore was a City Councilman of El Cajon for the 2½ years prior to election to the board of supervisors and was Civil Service Commissioner of El Cajon for 5 years.

Her husband, Victor, is a staff engineer with Solar but is ill at present. Jane and Stephen are the couple's two adult offsprings.

She has served on the Heartland Fire Training Facility Authority, Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) 2nd. District Flood Control Commission and the Calif. League of Cities Human Resources Committee.

Her awards: Outstanding Leadership — United Way; Professional Leadership in Education — Grossmont Union High School District; Red Triangle for Volunteer Service—YMCA; Josephine Seaman Conservation Award — Cal. Fed. Women's Clubs; Citizen of the Year—La Mesa Jr. Woman's Club, S.D. Business and Professional Clubs—Presidents Council of Women's

Second Dog Incident Hospitalizes Postman

The second loose-dog incident in Lemon Grove during the holiday season hospitalized a Lemon Grove postal carrier, Dale Willey, of 8420 Blossom Hill dr., Lemon Grove.

Willey is a veteran of 18 years service with the Lemon Grove Post Office, 17 of which were in the area where the incident occurred.

The carrier was delivering mail to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hiener at 7928 Barton dr. on December 29 when the family's dog, a German shepherd, reportedly escaped confinement and charged the carrier as he was dropping mail in the mail slot at the Hiener residence.

Willey turned suddenly in an attempt to place his mailbag between himself and the charging dog. In the process, he said, he fell from the porch step of the Hiener residence. The dog circled Willey as he called for help. Mrs. Hiener, who said she had recently returned from the hospital, called the dog off. Willey said he was not bitten. But surgery was required to mend his thigh which was broken in several places. Three pins and a plate were put in place by surgeons at Grossmont Hospital.

He is expected to be released from the hospital this week but it will be several weeks before he can test his injury to determine whether or not he will be able to return to postal duty.

Guard Dog

On Christmas evening a 16-year old youth, Randy Dale of 2316 Golden ave., was attacked by a guard dog as he was leaving the Lemon Grove Bowlero, Broadway and College, Lemon Grove. The dog had escaped from a fenced in nearby camper sales lot. The youth reportedly required more than 100 stitches in his throat and face. Guard dogs are trained to go for the throat, an informant said. The youth was treated at Grossmont hospital and later released, it was said.

Willey is well-known in veteran's circles. He was California VFW commander in 1972-73.

In December, he presented the VFW District "Voice of Democracy" award to Roberta Lyons, a Mt. Miguel High school student. He was chairman of the event.

Grove's Taxable Sales Top $34 Million for Half-Year

First half business statistics furnished by the Economic Research Bureau of San Diego shows taxable sales for the first half of 1976 in Lemon Grove totaled $34,383,000.

Of that amount, $27,194,000 were retail sales.

Spring Valley was not listed in the study, part of the Bureau's December issue of the San Diego Economic Bulletin.

Business countywide recorded some $2.49 billion in total taxable sales during the January to June period, a 13.3 per cent increase in volume from the comparable 1975 figure.

Retail county sales was $1.85 billion, up 18.7 per cent from 1975.

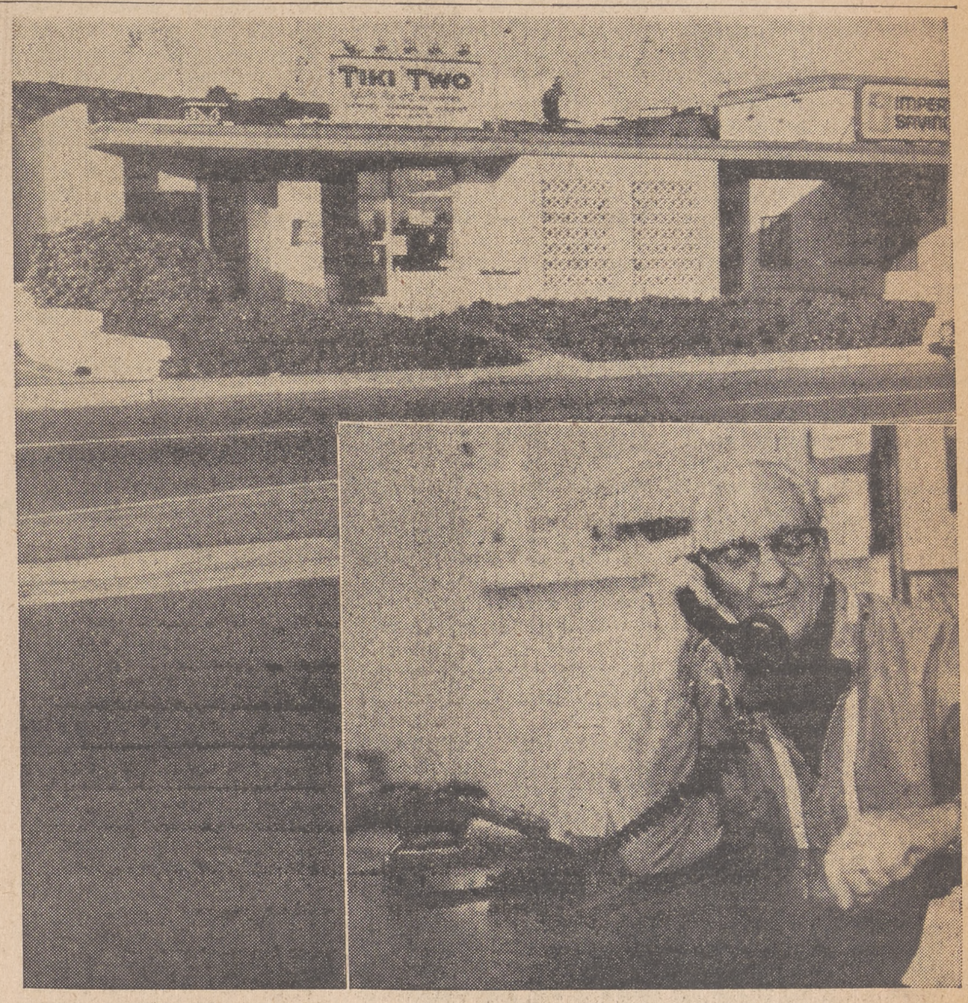
A breakdown of how San Diego County consumers spent their money during those six months shows "automotive group" sales accounted for the largest single retail expense with a third of all sales.

General Merchandise accounted for 19 per cent of retail business. Eating and drinking business ranked third with 13 per cent of the market. San Diegans spent another 8 per cent of their retail budget in food stores, 7 per cent in both specialty and building-material stores and 4 per cent in apparel shops.

Of interest to residents of Lemon Grove is sales figures for San Marcos, the incorporated city which closely matches Lemon Grove in size and population. The County's study of Lemon Grove incorporation was on data for San Marcos.

San Marcos recorded $23,141,000 in total taxable sales and $14,743,000 in total retail sales, both figures considerably less than Lemon Grove's for the first half of 1976.

The Bureau is jointly supported by the City of San Diego, the County and the San Diego Chamber of Commerce. Reports on business and employment conditions are published monthly.



INCORPORATION INFORMATION — The Committee for Incorporation of Lemon Grove set up campaign headquarters this week in the small office at 7748 Broadway, near Imperial Savings. Volunteers will man the headquarters from 1 to 4 p.m. daily until the election, March 8. Inset is volunteer Ivan Lauritzen explaining to a caller how property taxes will fall when the area incorporates.

LG Inc. Group Opens Info Office

Headquarters were opened Monday for the Citizens for Lemon Grove Incorporation.

A team of volunteers will man the office at 7748 Broadway from 1 to 4 p.m. weekdays through March, election day.

A special phone line (469-2149) has been set up to take questions and comments from citizens in Lemon Grove.

"We're encouraging everyone who has doubts about the incorporation issue to call and find out more about it," said attorney Jim Dorman, Incorporation proponent.

Advocates for Lemon Grove cityhood stress that incorporation will lower property taxes from the present 86.6 cents per $100 assessed value paid solely for fire service to 75 cents, according to a study prepared by County staff. In fact, the first two years of locally disbursed property taxes could meet all city expenses with a rate as low as 70 cents, the study shows.

If approved by voters, Lemon Grove would become a city beginning July 1. The city would not be eligible to receive property tax income during its first year, but would be able to function at a budget surplus without it during the first year, the County study concludes.

A strong business tax base is the reason.

Taxes and other related matters were discussed yesterday at Lemon Grove Jr. High, where the Incorporation committee held its second public hearing. The committee had hoped to generate comments from people opposing the proposal.

More hearings will be held throughout the next two months.

Householders Now Responsible For Cleaning Girl's Injuries

There are seven million households in California — 4½ million private homes and 2½ million rental units. Every one of these could be affected by a new California law which is now in effect, the California Committee on Household Workers' Compensation Insurance said.

The new law which extends workers' compensation benefits to a whole new segment of the working population who may be injured while on the job became effective January 1.

These employees— part-time and casual workers — have not been afforded this protection in the past and California is one of the first states to put this extension of benefits into law.

Starting with the first minute of 1977, California residents who hired anyone to do any work around the house or garden, for however little time, will be held financially responsible to provide benefits if the employee is injured while working.

All reasonable medical care is covered — medical bills, medicine, hospital costs, tests and x-ray, crutches — everything necessary to cure the employee's injury.

Rehabilitation costs will also be provided and employees receive a portion of lost wages, up to a maximum set by the California Legislature.

Additional payments are made for permanent disability, such as loss of sight, and if an employee dies as the result of injury, payments will be made to surviving dependents.

Certain liability insurance policies can include this coverage for as little as $5 per year but householders should not assume they automatically have this broadened endorsement.

The responsibility for any employer exists, regardless of the availability of insurance payments, so a check with an insurance agent, broker or company representative is in order.

Holiday Rain Is 2.0 Inches

Radio and television issued warnings on flash floods over the New Year's weekend—but none was reported in the Spring Valley-Lemon Grove area.

The storm was heavier in some parts of the county nearby than the 2.0 inches recorded locally in a three-day rain.

At Lindbergh Field, on New Year's Eve, a half inch of rain fell during a 10 minute period, it was reported.

Locally, Frank Mariejewski, assigned as meteorologist with the Lemon Grove Fire Department, said the storm on December 30 and 31 produced 1.16 inches. The January 3 storm was registered at .74 inches. Another .10 fell Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

It brought the total for the season to 5.73 which compares to 1.46 for the same period the preceding year.

Rainfall season end on June 30.

Seven Candidates File

All 3 Incumbents in LG School Board Election

Seven candidates had filed for three berths on the Lemon Grove school board by press deadline, according to elections supervisor Joanne Carlson of the County Registrar of Voters.

Among the seven are two incumbents, Leonard Klee and Craig Lake. Klee had put in his bid for his third four-year term while Lake is running for his first full term.

Lake replaced resigning trustee John Linn after a special election as part of the local ballot in November.

The third incumbent, H. Warren Buckner, said this week he intends to file before the Friday, January 7 deadline.

Buckner said he was uncertain going into the week whether he would run for a sixth term, but finally decided he would.

He has served on the board 20 years and was recently re-elected a delegate to the Region 17 delegate assembly of the California School Board Assn., of which he has been a member nine years.

Among other candidates in the race are Charles Pennell, an administrator with the County Department of Substance Abuse, and Carol Chubb, a homemaker. The two finished second and third, respectively, in the November election.

Others in the race are Maxine Grove, a housewife, of 7154 Mt. Vernon; Victoria Morgan, of 3202 Vista; and Paul Copeland, a public administration major at San Diego State U., of 3881 Massachusetts ave.

Marionettes to Rekindle 'Spirit Of '76' at SV's Mt. Miguel Covenant

Rev. and Mrs. Willard E. Grant, children's evangelists in the Evangelical Covenant Church of America, "proclaim liberty throughout the land to every inhabitant thereof." They use a fast moving program of child participation, visual aid, chalk talks, singing, and marionettes, and have a repertoire of eight series of services. Concerned about a decline in the Christian faith and national patriotism, the Grants have chosen the "Spirit of 76" as their current theme.

That spirit will come alive each evening through the medium of 24 two-foot tall marionettes carved by the Rev. Mr. Grant and painted by his wife. Authentic Revolutionary garb has been designed for the marionettes. Once again George Washington will inspire his soldiers at Valley Forge, and Paul Revere will ride the roads to warn his countrymen of the redcoats' arrival.

Each night, January 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, at Mt. Miguel Covenant Church, Kempton and Akard sts. in Spring Valley, the liberty pole will be raised and the Liberty Bell will be rung, calling young patriots to become "Sons and Daughters of Liberty." Sunday evening, January 16, the service will begin at 6 p.m. and the week services from Monday through Thursday, January 17 through 20, will be from 7 to 8:15 p.m.

All youth of the community and their parents are invited to attend each night.

Each service will be different, it was said.

Organ Recital Combines Old, New

An organ recital combining works of the Baroque period with twentieth century compositions will be presented January 23 by Boude Moore, director of music and organist at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of San Diego at 4 p.m.

Moore is organist and director of music at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Santa Monica.

The program will include "Prelude and Fugue in C Major" by Georg Boehm; two chorale preludes, "Vom Himmel hoch" and "Wie schoen leuchtet", by Pachelbel; "Offertoire in D" by Dandrieu; "Prelude and Fugue in C Major" (BWV 547) by Bach; "Partita" Koloss; "Variations on Shape-note Hymn" by Barber; and "Partita on 'Wacht auf' op. 8/2" by Distler.

The recital is sponsored by the San Diego chapter of the American Guild of Organists and the music committee of the First Unitiarian Church. There will be no admission charge but a collection for the church's organ fund will be taken.

Free parking is available adjacent to the church, which is located at 4190 Front street, across from University Hospital.

Personnel Officer Gene Mladineo said each year the number of applicants increases dramatically, but the number of jobs remains fairly constant.

Look for More Complicated Form, Say State, Fed. Tax Officials

California and federal tax officials confirm that 1976 income tax forms will be considerably more complicated than usual.

Two of the top tax officials in the State, Martin Huff, executive officers, Franchise Tax Board, and William H. Connett, IRS district director for Southern California, expressed concern that taxpayers may find themselves overwhelmed by the more complex tax forms.

"The new 1040 is definitely more difficult," Connett said. "It reflects numerous changes necessitated by the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

Huff said California's form 540 for 1976 differs in three major respects from the previous year's State return. "One is an increase of limits on the special low-income credit, which means more taxpayers with higher incomes can now qualify for the credit.

"Another refers to the State renter's credit, which will now be a flat $37, regardless of income.

"The third change allows persons who have installed qualified solar energy devices to claim a tax credit of 10 per cent of the costs, up to $1,000."

Huff added that the State form does generally conform to the federal law on individual retirement accounts.

Connett listed several new tax credits that apply to the 1976 federal forms, all of which have the net effect of reducing tax liability. The most dramatic example, he said, is a credit for child-care expenses. Those expenses, formerly treated as deductions, can now be used to reduce federal tax liability dollar-for-dollar up to certain limits, regardless of a taxpayer's income level.

"The new federal forms also have fewer tax tables than those for past years," Connett said. "This requires taxpayers to make additional computations and will increase the probability of error on the returns. We therefore advise everyone who had less than $20,000 of adjusted gross income in 1976 to let our Service Center employees compute the tax liability."

Huff emphasized that the State tax agency does not compute the taxes due, as the IRS does.

Connett also explained other features of the Tax Reform Act which are reflected on the federal returns. They include increases in the low-income allowance and the standard deduction; the "credit for the elderly," which replaces the retirement income credit; and the extension of the earned income credit.

Connett said delivery of federal tax forms is running according to past year's schedules, despite late enactment of the '76 Reform Act, which the President signed into law less than two months ago. They should reach taxpayers by approximately January 3.

Huff said the mailing of State forms is slightly behind last year's schedule. About half have been mailed; the balance will be out by mid-January.

Both officials advised taxpayers to complete the federal forms prior to beginning work on the 540 State return. This will facilitate the deducting of State taxes paid or withheld during 1976, and reporting as income for that year the amounts of such taxes received as refunds.

Anticipating a large volume of tax payer inquiries, Connett and Huff said both their agencies have been training volunteer citizen groups to help relieve IRS and FTB phone and walk-in congestion. To date, more than 3,000 Southern California volunteers have been trained or are scheduled to receive the training for the 1977 income tax filing season.

Change Makes Action Quick On PUC Gripe

A new shortened complaint procedure will afford consumers a method of expediting complaints against public utilities.

"The new procedure will be similar to a small claims court and should result in complaints being resolved within 60 days after filing," said Public Utilities Commission President David Holmes.

It provides for a consumer filing a complaint with the PUC, getting a hearing before a PUC examiner within 30 days and hearing a decision on the complaint within another 30 days.

The procedure requires the consent of both the complainant and the utility to waive the court reporter and findings and conclusions in the final decision by the examiner.

Under the older system, most complaints were handled on an "informal" basis by the PUC staff, which investigated and responded to the complaint.

Last year more than 6,600 informal complaints were handled by the PUC staff.

Two Views of Tax Problems

Governor Brown's latest tax-switch will force more job-producing business away from California, according to Lyle O. Cook in a letter to each of California's legislators.

Cook, head of the state-wide Tax Initiative's Unlimited Group, called for a return to tax-accountability in government, which will limit public spending to people's ability to support it.

A proponent of a California Initiative which will require approval of any new tax or tax increase, Cook also asked for support of the Initiative now circulated statewide for the necessary 500,000 signatures to place it on the ballot as a Constitutional Amendment.

Meanwhile, Governor Brown has sent a message to all county boards of supervisors stating that "the property tax problem is aggravated by growing costs of programs mandated upon county government".

To slow down the costs of government Brown asked county supervisors for lists of state-mandated programs which they felt could be removed or modified by the state.

He also assured supervisors that county costs for implementation of the so-called Juvenile Justice Bill effective January 1, will be recognized by the Department of Finance.

First of a Series

Abused Child is Victim From All Backgrounds, Younger Says

This is the first of an eight-part series on the abused and neglected child, based on "Child Abuse," a pamphlet published by the office of State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

Child abuse and neglect occurs in all cultural, ethnic, occupational and socio-economical groups — and is a problem requiring immediate and serious attention, says California's chief law officer, Attorney General Younger.

"We must all be concerned with the detection, treatment and above all, effective prevention of child abuse and neglect for the sake of our children, parents and society in general," he writes in the pamphlet.

Abuse Defined

To many, child abuse is narrowly defined as having only physical implications, but in reality, it is any act of omission or commission that endangers or impairs a child's physical or emotional health and development.

This includes physical assault, corporal punishment, emotional assault, emotional deprivation, physical neglect or inadequate supervision, and sexual exploitation.

The infliction of injury, rather than the degree, is the determinant for intervention. A parent or caretaker may begin by inflicting minor injuries and go on to cause more serious harm over a period of time.

Therefore, detecting initially inflicted small injuries and intervening with preventive action may save a child from future permanent injury or death.

Of course, inflicted physical injuries, physical neglect, and malnutrition are more readily detectable than the subtle and intangible injuries which result from emotional maltreatment or deprivation.

It is not easy to judge the quality of family emotional relationships since each cultural, ethnic, racial and economic group has its own style of interacting with children.

Assessing family emotional relationships is a critical aspect of child abuse investigating procedures. When observing a family, it is important to be fully aware of our personal biases and preconceptions, and to be able to differentiate between practices of childrearing which are truly harmful to children and those practices which merely reflect different lifestyles.

Overpunishment

The most common cause of inflicted physical injury is overpunishment which occurs when corporal punishment is unreasonably severe. This usually happens when the parent is extremely agitated or angry and either throws, or strikes the child too hard or continues to beat him.

The combination of physical punishment and rage can be deadly. In addition, many experts agree that it is not an effective discipline technique. Rather than deterring a child from future negative behavior, the use of corporal punishment teaches him to resolve conflicts violently — to use physical power rather than reason to obtain results or express anger.

Physical punishment is more effective for relieving the parent of tension, than for disciplining the child. Frequently, it leaves the parent with feelings of guilt and remorse, as well.

Intentional, deliberate assault such as burning, biting, cutting, poking, twisting limbs or otherwise torturing a child is also included in this category of child abuse.

Types of Abuse

Physical abuse is "suspected" when any of the following occurs:

1. Injuries on several surface areas of body (indicates child has been hit from different directions).
2. Previous injuries, repeated and different aged abrasions.
3. Different colored bruises (color indicates age of bruise).
4. Wrap-around injuries (from flexible objects such as strap, belt, cord).
5. Imprint of object on skin (belt buckle, hose coupling, hand, spoon).
6. Odd shapes and sizes of injuries.
7. Injuries under clothing (school-age children especially).
8. Injuries located mostly on head or face (possibility of brain or eye damage).
9. Burns: glove or sock-like appearance (from immersion in hot liquid), donut shape on buttocks (held down in hot liquid), pointed or deeper in middle (hot liquid poured on), shape of object (poker, heater grill, utensil).
10. Child generally fearful of adults, non-spontaneous, refuses to speak in front of parents.
11. Or, conversely, child overly eager to please adults when asked to perform menial tasks.
12. Parents unable to explain injury, explanation unlikely, discrepancies in explanation, blame placed on third party, explanation inconsistent with medical diagnosis.
13. Parents over-react and are extremely nervous.
14. Parents bring child to medical facility for unneeded treatment.
15. Verbal threats against life of a child made by parents.

Next: Emotional assault and deprivation, physical neglect and sexual exploitation.

The Slip that Showed

By John Kowalczyk

Perhaps a Spring Valley pharmacy can send over a bottle of Excedrin while we straighten this one out:

Confusing terminology led to an error in this newspaper's year-end Spring Valley news wrapup last week.

Under the month of March, results of the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce elections were announced.

Confusion came when it was deduced that the president-elect of the Chamber, Larry Symonds, was assumed to be the newly elected president. Not so. In Spring Valley, the president-elect is the person in line to replace the new Chamber president at the end of his term or if he resigns earlier.

Burt Hodge was correctly identified last week as the elected vice president, but that office is second in the line of succession, rather than first.

Non Retirement

Maurice Peterson, erroneously listed as the retiring Chamber president, was in fact appointed to replace Glen Boelter who resigned as president earlier that year. Peterson was also elected to a two-year term as president which began in July.

"It probably would be better to use the terms 'first and second vice president'," Peterson said, "but that's the way it's worded in our by-laws."

We regret the error, but wonder if a by-law change might be in order.

While we're at the S.V. CoC's revolving door, it was also brought to our attention that Charlene Anderson, listed last week as the new Chamber treasurer, received a company transfer from the S.V. Home Federal bank office. Her office replacement, Caroline Clune, also accepted the treasurer post for the Chamber.

Local Artist in Show

Acrylic paintings by Marjorie Linton will be shown in a solo exhibit at the S.D. Art Institute Gallery from January 11 through 30.

A native from New Jersey, Linton studied and taught art in the area for more than 20 years. She is art instructor for the Poway Unified School District and a three year member of the S.D. Art Institute.

SV Nurse Aide Is Hospital's Jan. Employee

A Spring Valley woman has been selected as employee of the month for January by Grossmont Hospital's Employee Liaison Committee.

Penny Rose, a nursing assistant at the hospital for the past five and one-half years, is honored by having her photograph displayed in the lobby of the hospital during the entire month and receiving an assigned parking space at the hospital entrance.

In December, Rose completed an ROP Medical Clerk training program in hopes of securing a position as ward clerk in the hospital. She has been working as a relief nursing assistant for the past several months.

A native San Diegan, Rose was a 1967 graduate of the San Diego Academy. She also attended Monte Vista High School.

The mother of two children is an avid bowler.

Her older brother, Vance Bouchard, is a former employee of Grossmont Hospital, having worked as an orderly in the emergency room.

George T. Gross Gets College Research Post

George Timothy Gross has been appointed a research assistant in anthropology at Washington State U., Pullman, Washington, for the 1976-77 school year.

He is the son of Mr. George C. Gross of 4025 Citradora dr., Spring Valley. He is a graduate student in anthropology at WSU and is working toward an M.A. degree.

Gross is a graduate of S.D. State U. where he received his B.A. degree in June of 1976.

Dogs, People Have Their Days at School

Dogs and people will get special services by attending San Altos School on respective days next week.

Wednesday, January 12 is a night for dogs, as the San Diego County Veterinary Medical Association conducts one of the rabies vaccination clinics. Shots cost $2, which must be paid in cash. The clinic, which also offers licenses, is held from 7 to 9 p.m.

People's day is Thursday, January 13. At 9:15 a.m. Dr. Genevieve Oliphant, head of special services in the Lemon Grove School District, gives a talk in the school cafetorium on what services are available to children in the district. These include classes for learning disability, educationally handicapped, educable mentally retarded and asphasic children.

Dr. Oliphant is also principal at Mt. Vernon school.

San Altos is at 1750 Madera st. in southwest Lemon Grove.

Gorillas Star In Museum Flick

The film of events that brought the gorillas M'bongo and N'gagi to the San Diego Zoo will be shown Sunday at the Museum of Man at 12 noon and 2 p.m.

The film "Congorilla", was shot in 1932 by Martin and Osa Johnson and in it the capture of the two animals is shown.

Long segments of the life of the Itura Pygmies are in the film, highlighted by a charming courtship and an impromptu Pigmy dance to an American jazz record.

The picture is said to be a study in photographic excellence as well as an anthropological delight.

M'bongo died at the Zoo in 1942 and now resides, stuffed at the Museum of Man.

Admission to Museum is 75 cents — children 10 cents but viewing the film is without extra charge.

Hot Import

More than 51 million pounds of black pepper were imported into the U.S. last year.

New Tough Shoplift Law Geared to Stop Thief

Shoplifting, a burgeoning crime nationally was expected to meet its turning point in California beginning January 1 when a new, tough law augments statutes already on the books.

The new law imposes a mandatory fine on the convicted shoplifter and gives merchants unprecedented rights in detaining and searching a suspect while affording the merchant protection against a lawsuit if his suspicions prove false.

Under the old law, mandatory fines were not imposed upon a shoplifter, although fines were sometimes extracted. Shopkeepers have found it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to convict an offender.

The new law imposes a mandatory penalty of a minimum of $50 and as high as $1000.

First time offenders do not escape the fine.

Fines are in addition to the existing penalty of up to six months' jail, a deterent which is seldom enforced today.

Work Alternative

The new law provides for an alternative to paying fines. When a person is found guilty of shoplifting, the court may, in place of a fine, order the individual to do public service work in specified agencies.

The length of service will be determined by the size of the fine and the prevailing minimum wage.

That means a shoplifter with the minimum fine would have to work 20 hours at California's minimum wage of $2.50 an hour as a replacement for the fine.

Children will not be exempt from the work alternative. A child may be allowed to perform public service approved by juvenile court by working at the prevailing minimum wage.

A theft by a child will make the parent or guardian liable for the child's misconduct. Thus, the person having custody or control of the minor is held accountable, either by himself or together with the minor, to the merchant for the retail price of the merchandise if not returned in good condition.

Also, the merchant will have the option to recover punitive damages of $50 to $500. The parents will pay the merchant's court costs, if the child is convicted.

The merchant may sue the parent or adult suspect in Small Claims Court if damages do not exceed $500. Litigation through Small claims Court instead of Justice or Municipal Court saves time and costs, since attorneys are not allowed to represent clients in Small Claims.

The new law gives a store manager or employee the right to detain a suspect for reasonable time whenever the merchant has probable cause to believe the suspect took goods without paying for them.

Pat-Down Legal

The store is permitted to hold a suspect while he conducts a pat-down search or examines any items in his "plain view" which he believes were unlawfully taken from his store, without being held liable for damages.

A merchant cannot use deadly force to detain a suspect. But he can use "non-deadly" force to prevent the escape of the suspect, or to prevent damage to the merchandise or loss of property.

Reasonable force may also be used in self-defense against an attack by the suspect.

The merchant will be allowed to carry out his own investigation "in a reasonable" manner without being civilly liable. Thus, the new law allows him to assert probable cause in carrying out his investigation as a defense to any civil action.

As long as he acts "reasonably", the law will protect him.

Studies Show VD Class Is Valuable Preventive

School instruction about venereal disease has been shown to be effective in preventing the disease among California teenagers, the State Department of Education reported recently.

Incidence of VD among teens in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Santa Barbara counties (San Diego was not included in the test group) declined significantly while it has increased for other age groups, it was reported.

Through a series of workshops, more than 10,000 teachers, administrators and school health personnel have been trained in the techniques of VD instruction. Nearly 90 per cent of California schools now have some form of VD education, according to state Superintendent Wilson Riles.

The report recommended that VD instruction be started in the late elementary grades, no later than grade seven. It also recommends that no teacher be compelled to teach the course.

A teacher who doesn't feel comfortable discussing the subject with students will scarcely be worth the effort, the report contends.

Medical Society To Seat '77 Officers

The San Diego County Medical Society and Auxiliary will inaugurate its officers for 1977 during a meeting Tuesday night.

Last year's president, Dr. Gordon R. Freeman will turn his post over to Dr. Franklin S. Glanz, a general practitioner from San Diego.

UNCLE SAM has a Check-a-MONTH PLAN

Just buy United States Series H Bonds.
You see, H Bonds pay interest every six months.
So if you buy an H Bond every month for six straight months, you get a check every month for ten straight years.

Which is terrific if you're retired or want to reward yourself with extra income.

You can buy H Bonds in denominations beginning at $500. It's also possible to convert your Series E Bonds to H Bonds whenever you decide you'd like to have income rather than letting the interest accumulate.

Either way, H Bonds are an interesting investment plan. With an interest check every month.

Now the H Bond interest rate averages 6% per year when held to maturity of 10 years. Lost, stolen, or destroyed H Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. H Bonds are redeemable after six months, by application through your bank.

Take stock in America.

Loss is $244

Albert C. Harvey, 9350 Kenwood dr., Spring Valley, on Christmas Day reported that his home had been burglarized while he was away and the loss was $244.

On his list of missing items was a calculator, $45 in cash and a ladies' solitaire diamond necklace worth $1505.

PTA President Speaks Out On TV Violence

Mary Bowen, president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, ninth district, has called on its members to support efforts of the National PTA to pressure television networks to cease its display of violence.

"The overage young person sees approximately 17,000 acts of crime on television by the time he graduates from high school," Bowen said. "We are appalled by reports of attacks on teachers."

She urged all parents to monitor the TV programs viewed by their children and help with a survey being conducted by Marguerite Lewis, District director of communications.

Results will be presented at a Los Angeles public hearing on TV violence February 22.

Bowen said the National PTA "lowered the boom" of TV violence in September when ten representatives met with television executives in Chicago.

County Eyes Mobile Home Amendment

The County Board of Supervisors has set a date to examine the public reaction to a zoning ordinance amendment extending privileges of mobile home owners.

The Board has set January 19, 2 p.m. as the date for a public hearing to consider limiting the distinction made between standard residential dwellings and mobile homes.

The proposed amendment would permit existing owner-occupied mobile homes on privately owned lots the same uses as standard dwellings in the same zone. It would allow mobile home owners to establish buildings, keep animals or other accessory uses as the zone permits standard home owners.

The hearing is held in the South Board Chambers. Room 358, of the County Administration Center, 1600 Pacific Hwy., San Diego.

TV, Knife in Loot

Robert N. Guerrero, 9406 Piedmont st., Spring Valley, told sheriff's deputies that a burglar had entered his residence on Christmas Eve through the kitchen window to take selected items he valued at $140.

He listed a 9½" Sony teevee and a bowie knife as the two more valuable items.

THE $257,000 STROKE — Ben Crenshaw, 24, already one of the greatest putters in golf history, shows form he'll use in the Andy Williams San Diego Open golf tournament on Jan. 26-30 at Torrey Pines course. Young Ben was second in 1976 PGA tour earnings with $257,759.

Crenshaw On AWSDO Roster

Young Ben Crenshaw, who lived up to superstar expectations by winning three tournaments, amassing $257,759 and finishing second in earnings to Jack Nicklaus in 1976, has indicated he will compete in the Andy Williams San Diego Open golf tournament Jan. 26-30 at Torrey Pines course.

Crenshaw, 24, and Jerry Pate, 23, the U.S. Open Champion who had previously entered the AWSDO, give the event golf's two heirs apparent to the throne now occupied by Nicklaus and before him by Arnold Palmer, Ben Hogan and Sam Snead.

Recently honored by West Coast sportswriters as MONY (Mutual of New York) Player of the Year for 1976, Crenshaw entered pro ranks late in 1973 as a three-time National Collegiate champion from the University of Texas and low scorer by 12 strokes in the Fall Qualifying School.

He promptly won his first tournament, the San Antonio-Texas Open, was second in the World Open, and with only nine starts finished 34th in earnings. Although he was 31st and 32nd on the money lists of 1974 and 1975, his next tournament win did not come until the 1976 Crosby Pro-Am.

But Ben added the very next event, the Hawaiian Open, and late in 1976 the Ohio Kings Open. He also was runner-up in the Westchester Classic to round out a sensational year.

Crenshaw attributes his great year to the settling influence of marriage in 1975 to Polly, a lovely girl becoming familiar to TV audiences for her appearances with Ben at trophy presentations.

Local High Schoolers In LA Sunkist Meet

For the first time in its 18-year history the Sunkist Indoor Invitational in Los Angeles will have a large contingent of San Diego area high school athletes.

Among the seven elite athletes invited for the prep portion are El Cajon quartermiler Darryl Priest and Valhalla High's Cheryl Flowers.

The two will compete in the high school portion of the meet which is held in conjunction with the open section where world record holders and Olympic champions like Dwight Stones, Dan Ripley, Hasley Crawford, Mac Wilkins and Steve Williams will vie.

The meet is slated for a noon starter on Saturday, January 15, at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Priest will be in one of three 500-yard races. The 49.2 runner faces Los Angeles Fremont's Jeff Roberts (49.2), Banning's Leonard McDonald (48.8) and Buena Park's Scott Turner (49.9).

Cheryl, who as a freshman dominated the girls mile last season, is entered in the seeded event at the Sunkist meet.

She'll match her 5:09.7 against Marin Catholic's Sarah Sweeny (5:00.8, Rio Americano of Sacramento's Karen Bain (5.03.3), and unbeaten freshman Tami Darr of Mission Viejo, among others.

Aztec Cagers Play Three on the Road

One of the toughest road trips of any season faces the S.D. State U. basketball team as the Aztecs head east for games with Arizona tonight, Drake Saturday and Missouri Monday, January 10.

Arizona will take a 10-1 record into tonight's game in Tucson and a No. 10 national ranking.

Drake is currently 2-7 with a game to play with Iowa State while Missouri is 9-2, ranked 17th in the nation and is fresh from a win in the Big 8 Tournament.

The Tigers meet Kansas before playing the Aztecs. San Diego State takes a 3-8 record of the trip after losing to North Texas State 108-100.

The only Arizona loss this season was to U. of Detroit on the road. The Wildcats have never lost to a non-conference team in McKale Center under coach Fred Snowden.

Drake is struggling a bit with a 2-7 mark, but much like S.D. State, the Bulldogs have lost to some very good teams. Some of the teams to beat Drake have been Baylor, Creighton, Iowa, Memphis State, Oklahoma and Iowa.

Missouri climbed to 17th in the nation this week after beating Iowa State, Colorado and Kansas in the Big 8 Tournament. The Tigers have four men averaging in double figures with center Kim Anderson (6-8, 200) the leader at 16.0 points and 9.5 rebounds. He is followed by guard Scott Sims at 115.2, forward Jim Kennedy (6-6, 208) at 12.9 and forward Clay Johnson (6-4, 1655) at 11.5 points and 7.5 rebounds.

Permatex 300 to Attract Two-Time Champ Ottinger

RIVERSIDE — Two-time NASCAR Late Model Sportsman national champion L. D. Ottinger will begin defense of his title Saturday, January 15 at Riverside International Raceway in the Permatex 300.

Ottinger, who until two years ago hadn't even driven the California freeways, is making his fourth racing appearance since January, 1975, in zealous pursuit of stock car racing's second most important championship.

The 38-year-old racing veteran has come close but hasn't yet mastered the Riverside road course. In his last try here he finished second to upset winner Jim Walker of Ferndale. Walker is also back to defend his Permatex crown.

The Permatex 300, as are all the other stock car events at Riverside, will be contested at the metric distance rather than miles. The effect is to shorten the race from 200 to 188 miles, just as the Winston Western 500 on Jan 16 is cut from 500 to 311 miles.

Was Runaway Winner

Ottinger put on an even more spectacular display of racing skill last March at Ontario Motor Speedway, when he ran away from a field of sportsman and Winston West Grand National cars in his Black Diamond Chevelle.

The race, which was postponed a week due to rain, necessitated two cross-country trips for L. D. and made him miss some critical points races in the east. After it was flagged off, however, his speed advantage was cut time after time by the yellow caution flag, and nine laps from the end of the race he found himself with Jimmy Insolo hanging on his bumper.

Insolo won by inches, slingshotting expertly off the final corner of the 125th lap.

Winning has been more of a way of life than a habit for the Tennesseean. He won the first race he was ever in, 19 years ago, and since then he has won four state championchips and four track point titles at his home speedway, Smoky Mountain Raceway.

But Riverside has been a challenge for him, to say the least.

"I still don't know quite which way the turns go," he said after his first taste of the road course in the Permatex 200 of 1975. He did a credible job, finishing 10th, but the way L. D. remembers it, he learned a lot more about the grass and dirt than he did about the pavement that year.

'Tree Trunks'

Challenging Ottinger and Waker, the logger and rancher whose arms have been described at "two tree trunks," will be a talented array of Southern California drivers and a smattering of other stars.

They include Ascot Park champion Randy Becker of Highland, Joe Chamberlain of Tigard, Ore., Ron Esau of El Cajon, Jim Reich of Turlock, Sad Sam Stanley of Castaic, Ernie Stierly of Vancouver, Wash., and Richard White of Escondido.

Ticket customers at the Permatex 300 who also buy admission to the Winston Western 500 will be accorded free overnight parking privileges on the Raceway grounds.

OMBAC Hosts Annual Rugby Tournament

The Old Mission Beach Athletic Club (OMBAC) will host its 6th annual San Diego Invitational Rugby Tournament.

The 2-day tournament will feature 60 Rugby teams with 48 men's teams and 12 women's.

Preliminary games will be Saturday, January 15, starting at 8 a.m. at Robb Field. Admission is free.

The final games of the men's and women's divisions will be in the San Diego Stadium Sunday, January 16, at 2 p.m. Admission $1 and parking is free.

Tickets available at the Stadium.

This year's competition includes the Australian Rugby Club; last year's S. Cal League champions — OMBAC; the 1976 tournament winners —Santa Monica; UCLA, USC, San Diego State, BYU, UCSD, and others.

Proceeds will benefit the S.D. Police Officers' Assn. for youth work and San Diego youth sports groups.

Padres 7th in Winter Draft

The Padres will be picking in the number seven spot Tuesday, when baseball holds its annual January Free Agent Draft.

The draft will be held via a telephonic conference call between all 26 major league clubs and the Baseball Commissioner's Office in New York City. The activities will get underway at 9 a.m. local time with opening comments from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn followed by the draft itself beginning at 9:30 a.m.

San Diego will have the seventh pick in the Regular Phase behind the Montreal Expos, Chicago White Sox, Atlanta Braves, Milwaukee Brewers, St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Tigers. The order is based solely upon the inverted order of finish in 1976.

Then, in the Secondary Phase, the Padres will not be drafting until the number 20 spot. The order of selection in this phase is based on a drawing of club names and the Padres had the misfortune to come out near the bottom of the pack.

In the Regular Phase, the players available will be those who have never been drafted before or those selected a year or more ago who did not sign a professional contract. Players available in the Secondary Phase are those who were drafted last June, but did not sign a contract.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

It's about this time of year you gotta honker back and study on how you're doing with your New Year's resolutions. A full week has slipped past almost and anybody who is still straight arrow just ain't trying. Not hard, anyhow.

The funny part is, I still got a couple resolutions that are still working. Most of the time my best intentions last about as long as my diets. I start one of those damn things every Monday morning and the good ones last until noon.

I resolved to lose 50 pounds during the new year, but just thinking about it made me so thirsty I downed a six pack of tall Coors watching the Trojans stiff the Michigans in the Rose Happening.

So much for that good intention. Resolution number one lasted exactly three hours and 27 minutes. Not a record, just average.

I tried my hand at more serious doings. Like "I resolve not to laugh at politicians, even when they ignore facts and act, as usual, in a way that rivals a congenital idiot burro for wit and wisdom."

That one didn't last long, either. Hardly past the first thinking. And my guffaws spewed over to cover "cause seeking" television news-actors and big daily "word typers" that consider cheap shots a righteous substitute for news.

The common dencminator is cops. City cops and county cops. It's always open season on cops. And every turkey gorging him (or her) self at the public trough loves to take free swings at the Fuzz.

This time it's football. And the cops are the good guys. Even if you got a 502 over the holidays, you gotta understand the cops are the good guys in this one.

As readers of this corner are quick to remember, the San Diego City Fuzz, from here forward to be known as the "Heat," will tangle with the Deputy Sheriff's warriors, forever more called the "County Mounties," in a football match on Saturday next at San Diego Stadium.

Some of the badge and star set are going to kick it around for the San Diego Boy's Club Foundation in a new approach to combat juvenile delinquency. Not a bad dodge, huh?

These guys work a full shift, grab a couple hours sleep and get it on at the practice field for a couple hours of heavy stuff almost every day. Now, that's really "gettin' involved."

And some of these old dads are in their forties, a whole bunch are in their thirties and ain't none of 'em even seen hard hittin' in a half dozen years, at best. And yet, they're out there hot and heavy, rockin' and sockin' for no better cause than gettin' it on with kids.

So what do our stand up comics in local government do? How do they back up the hard work done by their Deputy Sheriffs and City Fuzz? The answer is, of course, in the usual way. They shove it up their nose with a rubber hose.

Choosing to ignore the deep significance of such a venture, and reverting to negative form, both the County Board of Supervisors and the San Diego City Council took a solid non-stand on this unique approach to understanding and concern of your youngsters by city and county Fuzz, grasped their hands in despair and cried out, "But what if you should get hurt? Fight juvenile crime if you want, but a broken leg costs money." And immediately claimed non-responsibility for hurts and aches.

Our brave politicos remind one of the turkey who wanted to close U.S. Patent office back in 1912 because "everything worth inventing had already been invented."

Of course the politicos negative action got a positive reaction from our local TV news-actors and "right-of-right" big daily typists. It's their kind of thing. Don't do it, just knock it.

The COPer Bowl kicks off at 7:30 Saturday night. Cops against Cops with kids the sure winner. Tickets are $2 each. Buy a couple and enjoy yourself. It's just a damn shame our local politicos took such a strong stand against kids. And that ain't no laughing matter.

Wrestling Resumes Tuesday At San Diego Coliseum

3,300 pounds of wrestling power is scheduled in the ring of the S.D. Coliseum at one time — Tuesday, January 11, when the $5,000, 12-man Battle Royal gets under way.

In addition to the Big Battle, there will be six other bouts—competitors yet to be named. Skirmishes start at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and every Tuesday thereafter.

In the Battle Royal Andre the Giant, who was on the Mike Douglas Show Tuesday night, will be the biggest. He's 7'-5" and weighs 450 pounds.

Others on the bill are Victor Rivera, Prof. Tonaka, Cien Caras, The Hankman, Alfonso Dantes, Chavo Guerrera, Butcher Vachon, Dr. Ota, Roddy Piper, Ken Mantell and Mike Stallings.

A Saturday night special on January 22, scheduled for the Coliseum, is a closed-circuit, direct-broadcast of the Carlos Palimino-Mando Munez welterweight championship fight. The Coliseum show gets under way at 7 p.m. and there will be two hours of televised boxing from Los Angeles.

Chargers First Draft Choice

Four Years Later Rodger Signs Pact

Wide receiver Johnny Rodgers, the San Diego Chargers first draft choice four years ago, was signed to "multiple one-year contracts" Monday.

The announcement was made at a press conference in Charger owner Gene Klein's office in the S.D. Stadium.

In attendance was Klein, head coach Tommy Prothro, general manager Johnny Sanders, and Rodgers.

The 1972 Heisman Trophy winner, who jumped to the Canadian Football League after rejecting the Chargers "fourth or fifth round money" offer, was a member of the Montreal Alouettes where he was named "Rookie of the Year" in 1973 and runner up for MVP" in 1974 and 1975. He caught 186 passes — 28 of them for touchdowns while with the Alouettes.

"I can be a wide receiver, a wing backer, a slot back, a kickoff returner, a punt returner — wherever I'm needed," Rodgers said Monday.

Skilsaws Removed

Francisco Sabala, a San Diego construction firm operator of San Diego parked his truck at the Inn Spot bar at 8300 Broadway, Lemon Grove, on New Year's Eve leaving his truck unlocked in the parking lot.

When he returened to it about 4 p.m., two Skilsaws valued at $230 were missing. Other tools were not taken, he told sheriff's deputies.

Bobof MVP as Griffins Win 2nd Tourney

For the second time this season, the Grossmont College basketball team has won a tournament championship.

The Griffins' latest triumph came in last week's Comet Christmas Classic when they swept to victories over College of the Canyons (71-68), Palomar (69-61) and Orange Coast (77-57).

The Griffins placed sophomores John Bobof and Jim Jollett on the all-tournament team at the Comet Classic, Bobof winning most valuable player honors for scoring 43 points and grabbing 22 rebounds.

It was the second time this season in which Bobof has earned MVP honors in tournament play. He was named the top player at last month's Cops-Grossmont College Tournament as well.

Prior to winning the Comet Classic, the Griffins made a three-game swing through the San Francisco Bay area. They defeated West Valley (56-53) in San Jose, but lost to San Joaquin Delta (94-91) and to City College of San Francisco (103-77).

The Griffins, who took a 12-5 record into the Southwestern game, were seeking revenge from the Apaches who scored a 65-56 victory over Grossmont last month in Chula Vista.

Grossmont has also played East LA earlier in the season. The Griffins beat the Huskies, 74-61, December 2 in the first round of the Citrus Tournament.

The S. Coast Conference season begins January 12 when the Griffins host Cerritos.

Kickoff is 7:30 p.m. The pair had just been jockeyed into making a bet on the outcome of the Saturday game which will be played between S.D. City Police and County Sheriff's Deputies. Globetrotters Return For SDX Charity Game

The Harlem Globetrotters bring their zany brand of basketball to the Sports Arena Friday, January 28 for a one-night appearance scheduled at 8 o'clock.

Sponsored for the eleventh consecutive year by the San Diego chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, the game will pit the Trotters against their perennial rivals, the New Jersey Reds.

In annoucing this year's renewal of the family-oriented sports event, chapter president Larry Thomas said net poceeds from the contest again will go toward support of the fraternity's college scholarship fund.

Since their first appearance in January of 1927, the Globetrotters have rewritten the sports record books many times over in the 13,000 games they have played in some 1,500 American cities and 94 countries.

During their nearly 50 years on the courts, the "Magicians of Basketball" have won an incredible .974 of those games.

While gaining new fans with each passing year, the Trotters add new dimensions to their basketball skills. In the beginning, the five-man team piled into an old Ford and drove from small town to small town. Today the Globetrotters touring company numbers 35 and will cover more than 70,000 miles on its current tour.

In San Diego, as in all cities, the Trotters are considered the "home" team.

The largest crowd ever to view a professional indoor basketball game saw the Globetrotters and their on-court antics last year in the Louisiana Superdome, where the team drew 31,112 fans to the New Orleans facility.

The Trotters, now in their 50th year of play, continue to attract capacity audiences wherever they unleash their style of uncanny, but highly professional, brand of basketball.

They'll be led by Meadowlark Lemon, the Clown Prince of Basketball, who has been a featured starter since he broke into their line-up more than a decade ago.

Although they play the largest cities and arenas in the country, they still have time to play in the small gyms that dot America's heartland.

In addition to the Globetrotters, fans will also witness an all-star variety show, including professional table tennis and the acrobatic twins, Doris and Karina Carlos.

Tickets for the Harlem Globetrotters are now on sale at the Arena box office, Bill Gamble's, Wards and all Arena ticket outlets.

Reserved seats are $4.50, $5.50 and $6.50.

OCEAN FIND A 'TREASURE' — It's just an old propellor and shaft from a small sunken ship, but it seemed like a treasure to Tom Stein, owner of Dutch Cleaners in Lemon Grove and scuba diving hobbyist. Every scuba diver dreams of uncovering some trace of man's past from the depths of the sea, Stein said. He had no idea of the age or origin of his discovery.

Suspects Located, No Charge Filed

Yvonne Marie Oster, clerk at Fiesta House Liquor, 8291 Broadway, Lemon Grove, became suspicious when one of two men, 26-30 years of age, asked her to cash a two-party check on December 24. The other man kept her distracted by browsing in the back part of the store.

They bought nothing but after they left she discovered that a bottle of Chavez Regal and a bottle of 21-year old Royal Salute were missing. Loss $34.95. She called the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office and the information was called to S.D. police. A half hour later the car was stopped and the passengers fit the description given by Oster—but the evidence was not with the suspects. No arrest was made.

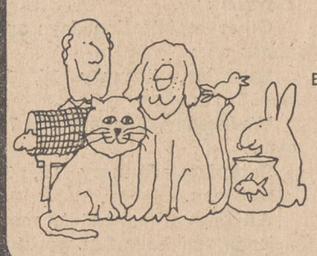
Wallet, $500 Lost

Richard L. St. Germaine, who lives at 8363 Golden ave., Lemon Grove, told sheriff's deputies that his wallet, with various credit cards, his Social Security card and $500 in cash was missing after he visited with acquaintances at a commercial business in Lemon Grove on Christmas eve.

St. Germaine is associated with Starlight Plumbing, he reported.

YOU AND YOUR PET



By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.

Rabies Vaccinations

Many pet owners feel rabies vaccinations are only necessary for domestic animals such as the dog and cat. They believe that exotic pets like skunks or tropical cats will spend most of their lives indoors and are safe from exposure to infected animals.

But this is not the case. Rabies is a disease capable of infecting any warm-blooded animal, and almost all warm-blooded pets should be vaccinated to prevent the disease.

The term "exotic pet" is not limited to animals imported from abroad. A number of native American animals, including the skunk, racoon and fox are included in this category because they have not been domesticated through long association with man and are never really quite at home in captivity.

Most exotic pets are caught in the wild, and their history of possible exposure to rabies is unknown. Even certified capture at a very early age is no safeguard since animals as young as six weeks of age have been known to contract the disease.

Baby skunks may be exposed to the disease by contact with the mother. Some owners feel reassured by a short quarantine period, but they do not realize that rabies has a very uncertain and sometimes lengthy incubation period.

Studies have shown that the rabies virus may take from 15 to 285 days before it reaches the brain and causes recognizable symptoms. A bite on a pet's back leg from a rabid animal will bring the virus into the body, but at a great distance from the brain. Therefore, development of rabies from such a bite will take a much longer incubation period than a bite on the jaw or ear.

Because of the health risks involved and the sometimes unpredictable behavior of exotic animals, I personally and professionally would not recommend keeping any type of exotic pet. However, if you are determined to keep an ocelot, skunk or other unusual pet, you should attempt to have it vaccinated against rabies.

Vaccination of exotic pets is done with caution since they do not always respond uniformly to vaccines designed for use on domesticated animals. Only inactivated forms of rabies vaccine should be used, with the dosage adjusted for body weight. Animals may be vaccinated as young as 3 to 4 months, and the vaccination must be repeated annually.

Early symptoms are not the classic foaming of the mouth, but rather a tendency to eat strange "foods," apparently because of hunger and a dimming of the sense of taste. Cats may also develop a type of paralysis of the throat and lose their normal voice, crying in a rather subdued, hoarse tone.

Complete character reversals are also common. Pets that are normally quiet and timid, may spring out to bite and scratch family members as well as strangers.

Any animal, including the domestic cat, that has a curious nature and a tendency to stalk and hunt other animals should not be allowed outdoors unless it has a current rabies vaccinatin. The vaccination will safeguard the pet should it encounter a rabid animal and get bitten in the process.

Should your pet, any warm-blooded pet, become seriously ill for some unexplained reason, you should contact your veterinarian, both for your pet's sake and your own. Rabies may be involved.

State-Wide Property Tax Rejected in 38th Dist. Poll

Local constituents favor the present tax laws, reject increases of state government control and take a tough stand on collective bargaining.

These findings are reflected in 20,000 responses to an 11 proposal questionnaire sent out by Senator John Stull, 38th District, to his constituents.

One question even received as much as 82 per cent of the "no" votes.

On taxation, respondents rejected a plan for statewide property taxes under which a flat property tax would be levied and go to a central fund from which it would be returned to school districts in relation to their number of students.

They also rejected a proposal to change the funding of local courts from county to state taxes, and decided against a 3 per cent increase in gasoline taxes for continued highway construction and maintenance.

A plan to use gasoline taxes for general spending instead of for highway and public transport purposes was equally vetoed.

Property Tax

Citizens, however, favored a change in property tax assessment methods which would increase assessed value of residential property only when property was sold.

On government control, constituents rejected two proposals to create new state agencies to oversee all development within areas "of critical environmental concern" and those "designated as prime agricultural".

They also decided against legislation requiring that all handguns be turned in to the state with compensation assured.

On collective bargaining, respondents favored the dismissal of striking educators in spite of recent legislation permitting collective bargaining for educators.

They also favored the concept to submit final offers in bargaining negotiations between public employers and employees to voters of the governmental units.

An "agency shop" agreement under which an exclusive bargaining representative for a unit of employees could require fees from dissenting employees as a condition for continued employment was overwhelmingly rejected.

Feds Give and Won't Take Back

Returning funds to the federal government is proving difficult for S.D. County.

Its Board of Supervisors recently enlisted the help of Senator-elect S. I. Hayakawa in order to return $40,401 in surplus Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds to President-elect Jimmy Carter after an earlier attempt to return the money to the U.S. Department of Labor had been thwarted.

Stating that the Department of Labor was not a proper recipient of the funds, and that the County remained accountable for these funds, Department Assistant Secretary for Employment and Training Kohlberg had returned the money.

County supervisors, however, want to return the surplus to express the Board's concern over cost-effectiveness of CETA programs and the lack of meaningful involvement by private business in the county.

Invisible Ink to Thwart Crooks Now Available

The Sheriff's Lemon Grove office has another weapon to catch burglars.

It's a Safeguard Invisible Marking Pen that is available to the public.

Users may mark any item, including clothing, with their drivers' license. A portable black light brings the identification out, according to Sgt. Roger Jacobs, officer in charge of detectives. The ink washes out of items laundered regularly, he said.

The marking pens are being demonstrated at Neighborhood Watch meetings but others may obtain them from the sheriff's office for their own use.

The pens are $1.50 and one is enough to mark items of an entire neighborhood Sgt. Jacobs said.

The difference between the sheriff's cost and the price the public pays goes to replace pens that are used in the Neighborhood Watch program.

Sgt. Jacobs said that office secretaries will handle the sale of the pens and that exact change is necessary.

The office is at Broadway and Golden in Lemon Grove.

$150 Coins Taken

A burglar ignored rare old coins but took $150 in new, common coins from the home of John Parker Simms at 3535 Helix st., in Spring Valley on December 28.

The thief got into the place by ripping a rear bedroom windowscreen.

NEW SHOP CENTER — As part of a newly planned 38,000 square foot center, the San Diego County Library has announced plans to occupy a new 9,000 square foot facility in Washington Center, Lemon Grove, at the southwest corner of Washington and Broadway.
The new 38,000 square foot center will be an extreme departure from the typical community shopping facilities, in that it will have an abundance of landscaping, throughout stepped parking areas, to give the development a pleasant park-like appearance.
The buildings, as designed by architect Herbert Nadel, will be finished in natural redwood to create a warm atmosphere to blend with the neighboring residential area. According to Alan Clark and Chuck Nicks of Ashwill Burke, leasing agents for the project, the development is scheduled to open this spring.

This Week's RECIPE

Sugary Treats from the Kitchen

With the cost of sugar what it is today, it's small wonder that many are turning to their own kitchens for sweet treats rather than the goodie counters of the local market. A little effort and no cooking can produce a quick batch of this party mint recipe which yields 70 to 90 candies with a store-bought" look.

The basic candy mix is proportioned in half-teaspoon amounts, formed into balls, rolled in granulated sugar, pressed into molds and popped out, ready to enjoy. It's just that easy.

PARTY MINTS
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
3 to 3½ cups powdered sugar
½ tsp. flavoring
Food coloring
Granulated sugar.

Beat softened cream cheese. Add one cup powdered sugar and mix until smooth. Blend in flavoring and appropriate food color. If using paste color a generous scoop with the wide end of a toothpick is a good start.

Now add remaining powdered sugar. It may be necessary to knead mixture until smooth. It should be like stiff pie dough. Pinch off a small piece of dough (about ½ teaspoon), form into small ball, roll in granulated sugar. Press into candy mold and unmold immediately onto wire rack. Makes 70 to 90 mints, depending on the mold used.

If molds are not available, measure a half teaspoon of candy mixture, roll in granulated sugar and press with hand into flat round disc. Store candies in cardboard box or container with loose lid. May be refrigerated or frozen.

Realty Acts For Property Tax Relief

Red Carpet Realtors throughout Southern California have stocked their offices from Ventura to San Diego with property tax initiative forms aimed at providing relief for the beleagured California property owner.

According to Initiative supporters the measure is to be submitted directly to the electors in 1977. It would limit ad valorem real property taxes to a maximum of 1 per cent of total cash value.

Backers of the proposal say that although the 1 per cent limitation will initially result in a loss of several billion dollars in State Tax Revenue, California would actually save over $700 million annually in homeowners and business inventory subventions, and an additional $50 million in senior citizens tax assistance payments.

Anyone interested in obtaining a petition may drop by a Red Carpet office.

Blood Bank Says Supply Low in SD

A blood shortage exists in San Diego, according to a spokesperson from the San Diego Blood Bank. Less than 4 per cent of those eligible to donate give on a regular basis, maximum of five times a year.

"We need more volunteer donors," said Del Roberts, Community Relations Coordinator. "This year, the requirements are for 300 donors daily to meet the community demand, an increase of 20 per cent over last year."

Anyone in good health between the ages of 17 and 65 may donate. The credit he receives may be used to join the Blood Assurance Plan and will protect the donor and family for unlimited blood at no cost for one year.

All blood types are needed at the San Diego Blood Bank, 5th and Upas, open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 to 3:30. Donors may also give at one of the bloodmobiles throughout the county.

Water Authority Extends TJ Pact

Tijuana will continue to get water through the S.D. Aquaducts until August 1978, according to action taken by the S.D. County Water Authority board of directors.

The action authorizes the Authority general manager and general counsel to sign an amendment to the contract originally negotiated in 1972. The contract provided for delivery for five years of a portion of Mexico's Colorado River entitlement to Tijuana through the aqueducts and pipelines of the Metropolitan Water District of S. Cal., the Water Authority, San Diego City, and Otay Water District.

The amendment will provide a one year extension of the agreement, which is administered by the International Boundary and Water Commission.

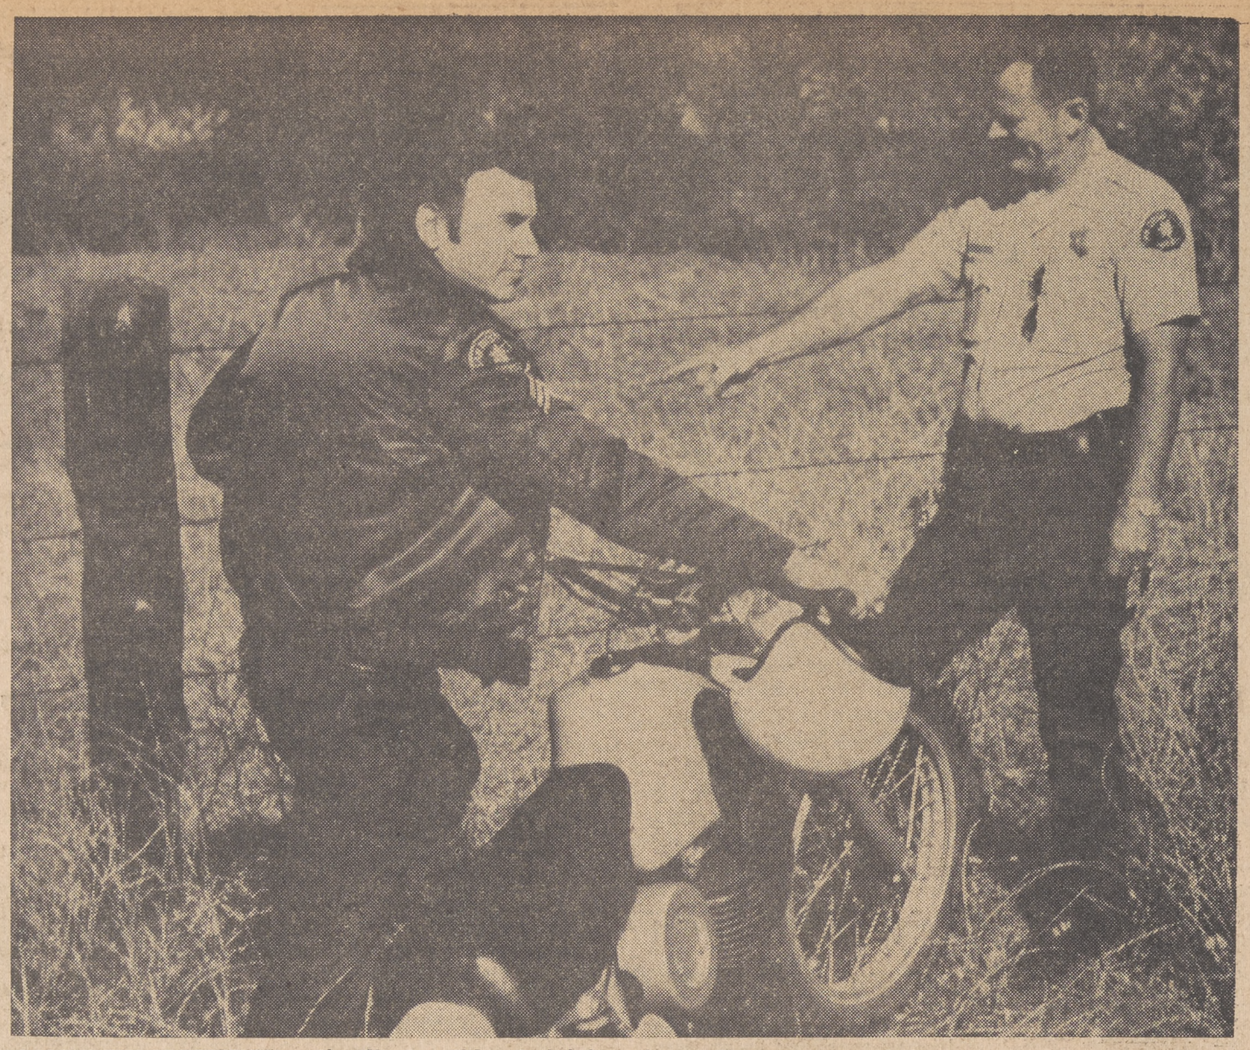
Mexican officials requested the extension to allow them time to complete the aqueduct from the Colorado River to Tijuana now under construction.

More than 7,000 acre feet of water was transported to the border by the U. S. agencies during the past year, according to Water Authority records. An acre foot of water is approximately 326,000 gallons.

First delivery of water to Tijuana under the contract was in August 1972.

In other action, the Authority board approved an environmental impact assessment which indicates there would be no adverse effects were Camp Pendleton to be annexed to the Authority.

According to the assessment, the limitations on water use for military purposes only and in quantities no greater than 15,000 acre feet per year would make it impossible to use water for any residential or agricultural growth.



BACKCOUNTRY PROTECTION — Sheriff's Sgt. Eldon Carl, left, meets Deputy Ralph Nunnery at a fence near Descanso to investigate a complaint. Nunnery uses a 4-wheel drive vehicle while Carl rides the two-wheeler for getting to less accessible places. They are two of the eight-man San Diego Sheriff's team who patrol the several hundred square miles of Mountain Empire backcountry area.

'Motocops' Ride Motocross in East S.D. County

"Give me a home
Where the . . . um . . recreational vehicles roam."

Like it or not, there are a lot of homes in the valley and on the hills of the county east from Spring Valley, through Pine Valley and on to Jacumba.

There is also a growing number of recreational vehicles (RV's). Many of them are from San Diego city and other parts of the county.

And therein lies the problem.

The problem is that RV owners need a place to roam.

And east county homeowners — many of whom settled "way out there" for the quiet and solitude to be expected from a remote area — are being encroached on by flatlanders from the city.

No question about it. RV's have become a recreational way of life for a huge segment of our population. It's a good sport. It's clean and wholesome and it keeps families together.

When a backcountry resident finds his "No Trespassing" signs torn down; his barbed wire fences cut, and vehicle trails cut in his otherwise virginal hillside, he gets disturbed.

And that, mildly put, adds to the problem.

Public Lands

RV owners are aware that a high percentage of San Diego county land is in public ownership by county, state or federal agencies.

They also observe large areas of land, both private and public that are unused and untended.

They feel that some of the land should be available for RV roaming. Some are prone to drive over land not open to RV's and bikes.

Property owners are complaining more vociferously now. Recently, five cows were shot by a trespasser. The bodies were found inside a 75 yard radius.

They had been left to rot. Someone had used them for target practice for his high powered rifle.

Animals Loose

Cut fences to get to places to ride RV's are commonplace. So is the property-owners chore of chasing down his animals that escaped through the cut fence.

Killing or intentionally injuring an animal is a felony, says the sheriff's department. Trespassing is a misdemeanor. These laws are being vigorously enforced it was noted.

Another of the problems is that sheriff's deputies cannot cover several hundred square miles of backcountry as easily as their fellow officers do in urban areas with its paved streets.

But the sheriff has determined that those in remote areas are entitled to the same quality of protection as that afforded to residents of the more developed areas. But the question is how?

Veteran Heads Team

Sgt. Eldon Carl, a 14-year veteran of the sheriff's department, resident sergeant of the sheriff's Pine Valley office, and a staff of eight men cover the entire Mt. Empire backcountry. Until now many suspects escaped because their vehicles were faster and more maneuverable. But that advantage is being overcome.

There is much more to it than RV's and trail bikers. Deputies handle poaching complaints, illegal fires, wood theft charges, burglaries, auto theft, assault and other cases. Where these cases involve pursuit, the backcountry patrol now has access to its own four-wheel drive vehicle. Sheriff John Duffy has plans to supply each resident deputy in the area with a four-wheeler when budgetary conditions permit. The rationale is good. Patrol units won't go where four-wheelers can go. And four-wheelers can't go everywhere a motorcycle goes. So the backcountry men now also have two 400cc Husqvarnas.

'Motocops' at Work

Riding high-powered motocross-type motorcyles is hazardous but Sgt. Carl's group has good credentials. Sgt. Carl, who is a champion fast-draw artist, is also a motorcycle cross country and enduro rider. He rides the Tecate 500 each year. He has won trophies the last two years.

Deputy Ken Moore, assigned to the Jacumba office is a former motocross rider and Deputy Chris Mayer of the Dulzura office is an enduro rider.

The Husky's are mounted on a trailer pulled by a patrol car. Motorcycle-mounted officers ride in pairs. Often the pair is met by Deputy Ralph Nunnery of the Pine Valley office. He is the team's four-wheel drive specialist.

And the newly-mounted team has been successful with serious crime problems. While recreation-seekers create a great number of complaints, it's the more serious type that holds the attention of the three back country offices. The ability of the motorcycle to get deep into the sparsely populated areas and warn trespassers is seeming to slow the trespass tide a bit.

Fence Cutters

But there are those who flaunt the law. Not only do some cut fences and otherwise damage personal property, but there are rustlers. Occasionally a cow's carcass is found with much of the meat removed. Then there was a cow with its jaw shot away — the victim of a person trying to improve his skill with a rifle. The animal had to be killed. Horses, sheep and dogs are frequent targets.

All of which means that the sheriff's men, if they are to give adequate protection to the backcountry taxpayers, must be more mobile than ever before.

Sgt. Carl notes that laws in densely populated areas apply the same as those in the backcountry and that standard patrol vehicles, four-wheelers, motorcycles and the sheriff's helicopter are tools available to enforce the laws in the "wilderness."

Laws For All

Since laws are designed to protect all society, they are being enforced as vigorously in the backcountry as they are in urban areas.

Recreation seekers often complain of the lack of useable areas for recreation vehicles. That is the responsibility of the County Board of Supervisors. Land may be purchased expressly for that purpose. The most popular area at present for RV's is the McCain Recreation area near Boulevard.

Recreation vehicle users have property rights too. They probably would call the cops in a hurry if strangers violated their front or back yards. Backcountry owners have the same rights of protection.

They're getting more of it now than ever before.

Peso Devaluation Takes Toll on County Business

September's devaluation of the Mexican peso has taken its toll on county business, according to results of a recent survey by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

Eighty-one of 10 firms questioned by the Chamber's Economic Research Bureau said their sales or receipts had fallen since the peso devaluation, compared with their figures for September and October 1975.

Eight per cent of the survey respondents said they laid off workers or reduced their working hours.

Most who said they were hurt by the devaluation said they did not want financial assistance. But twelve per cent said they would want aid. Of those, 38 per cent preferred low-interest government loans, 20 per cent wanted long-term loans and 18 per cent favored aid from the Small Business Administration.

More than half of the firms said sales to Mexican nationals comprised as much as 10 per cent of their volume. Only 13 percent said sales to Mexican nationals exceeded a fifth of their total sales.

Of the firms responding, 21 per cent were in services, 23 per cent wholesale, 21 per cent retail and 13 per cent manufacturing.

The survey was a cooperative project of the San Diego and Chula Vista Chambers of Commerce and the San Diego Wholesale Credit Men's Assn. and was coordinated by County Supervisor Jack Walsh and San Diego City Councilman Jess Haro.

Utility Needs Billions For Future Electricity

San Diego Gas & Electric Company faces the task of raising from $3 to $4 billion in capital during the next ten years to finance additional electricity generating capacity to meet customer demands.

The forecast was made by Ralph L. Meyer, SDG&E senior vice president — finance, in testimony prepared for presentation before the California Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission at a recent hearing.

Much of the capital raised will be used in nuclear power plant construction.

Subsidy — Forcible Transfer

"Study most (government) interventions, and they soon turn out to be carefully disguised schemes for the forcible transfer of resources from one group to another.

This would be denounced as thievery if pressure groups went directly to certain other groups and seized the funds and other property that they are often able to obtain by means of subsidies and laws giving them special privileges.

But such actions have become the fabric of our economy, and almost everybody has become dependent on subsidies and simllar interventions in his own business."

Many collectibles including rare comic cooks, old movie posters, toys, Mickey Mouse and Disney memorabilia will be displayed.

Advance membership rates offer saving of $1 or more over at the door prices. All proceeds support the San Diego Heart Fund.

The number of building permits issued in November were nearly double the same month last year, the County announced.

Total permits increased from 865 last year to 1,508 this year.

Permits for 11 months this year totaled 16,747 compared to 11,802 in the same period last year.

Most of the permits were for one-family dwellings but included many smaller constructions such as pools, patios and fences.
